- c. We believe off-ice training makes the player better. Players have to learn how to train to be a hockey player and understand the importance of off-ice training. If you think of the best shooters on a team, they didn't develop that skill only from on-ice coaching or practice. They have a place to shoot off the ice and they do it regularly, on a consistent basis.
- d. Our on-line stick handling program gives the player the structure and purpose, but the success of the program comes down to their self-motivation and time spent on getting better.
