WELCOME ABOARD

Welcome to the McMullen Hockey Arena within the Thornton D. and Elizabeth S. Hooper Brigade Sports Complex. We are proud of our Midshipmen and the outstanding manner in which they represent our Academy, alumni, and friends. Expect the Mids to compete with enthusiasm, teamwork, focus, and good sportsmanship. Playing again in the Eastern Collegiate Hockey Association in Division 1 of the American Collegiate Hockey Association will provide a great challenge and prove to be highly competitive hockey. I am certain our loyal fans will enjoy the fast paced action and spirited environment. Thanks to everyone who supports our team, and let's all cheer for another successful season for our Midshipmen.

Go Navy! Chet Gladchuk, Athletic Director

2010-11 SEASON OUTLOOK

The 2010-2011 Navy Hockey Team will showcase one of the youngest teams in Navy Hockey history. These talented young men exude great character and passion that will give Navy Hockey fans exciting and intense hockey. From Plebes (freshman) to Firsties (senior) each player has dedicated himself in preparing for this challenging season as Navy Hockey returns for its 2010 -2011 debut in the ECHA (Eastern Collegiate Hockey Association). “For these boys ‘wait until tomorrow’ is not a part of their mindset” notes Coach Mike Fox, back for his 4th season as Navy Hockey’s Head Coach. This team’s dedication, determination and cohesiveness have the coaching staff excited about guiding these young players into battle on the ice.

On Offense

Leading the way for Navy’s young team will be returning senior and this year’s captain Sam Carlson, a three year letter winner who gives 100% all the time. His experience, leadership and work efforts set the standard for the 2010 – 2011 Navy Hockey Team.

A versatile player, Sam is an offensive threat as well as a strong two way player. Classmate and Assistant Captain Stevie Csutoros will relentlessly pursue Navy’s opponents with an aggressive style of play that will pave the way for younger players to follow. Stevie, a natural leader and true role model, is proof that hard work and dedication leads to success. Senior, Michael Orzetti brings size to the offensive attack. He will add strength in front of the net in the offensive zone which should give Navy a goal-scoring edge. Jake Steven-Haas will continue to be a steady contributor to Navy Hockey with his commitment and willingness to help younger players develop.

Last years leading scorer and offensive player of the year, Mitch Pulver, will join the team several weeks into the season after recovering from an injury. A junior, Mitch is expected to pick up where he left off as one of Navy’s top offensive threats. Classmate

Kevin Frederick is poised to be one of this year’s top scorers, making this his breakout year. Second Class Ryan Hass, who, like Pulver, comes from one of Wisconsin’s Midwest Hockey programs, will be putting on a Navy Hockey uniform for the first time and is positioned to become a major contributor. Another junior, Jim Tumolo, enters his third year with Navy Hockey and will be stepping up into a leadership role. Jim is expected to bring a strong, aggressive threat to Navy’s opponents on offense as a quick and tenacious finisher in front of the net. Junior and second year player Shane Moran will continue to develop and is expected to offer size and strength on offense and defense. Youngster Doug Dietrich returns as one of the players who saw a lot of ice time as a Plebe and took advantage of that time to develop his skills. Doug is a versatile, two way player who has the ability to put the puck in the net. Also playing key roles are youngsters Liam Kearney and Matt Lutch. Both are hard working and determined players. Their hard work during the off-season has prepared them to make a significant impact every time they touch the ice. Fellow classmates Scott Wood and Sean Parmigiane have also made major improvements to their on-ice abilities and will add speed and strength to the offensive corps. Rob Van Winter is coming back for his second year after an injury plagued Plebe year. Like his other classmates, Rob’s off season workouts have positioned him to play a leading role in Navy’s offensive scheme.

Talented Plebes Tom Krysil, Tom Reed, and Cameron Hargigan have shown great promise throughout preseason workouts and in early play on the ice. These three young players come to Navy after successful prep and high school careers in New England. Adding to the versatility of the plebe class, Travis Franklin has shown his ability to play multiple positions. He will be called upon in several situations. As he adjusts to the college level pace, he will be a player to watch. Also joining the team on offense are two young players – freshman Dylan Kelly and sophomore Nathan Arnold. These additions to Navy’s offense appear eager and ready to contribute both now and in the future.

On Defense

Assistant Captain Matt Roberts is back for his final season as one of the team’s core defenseman. As a senior, he will anchor a young defense lineup and look to continue his steady presence on the blue line. Roberts will be joined by classmate Jonathan Wheeler who has overcome injuries from last year and will be back in action as a steady defenseman and team leader. In addition to being welcomed back as a reliable defender, Jon is also capable of effectively rushing the puck on an offensive attack. Junior Tom Fick enters his third season and will be asked to shore up the team’s defensive nucleus. Like Wheeler, Tom will give Navy the ability to control the puck in all zones, particularly on offense where he is especially threatening. Junior Gary Beier, who emerged as one of Navy’s most reliable defenders, will rely on his keen defensive instincts to add balance to a talented defensive squad. Youngster Curtis Bollinger, who has worked exceptionally hard on his game since last spring, will be a key contributor on defense with his increased quickness and mental discipline. Patrick Maguire, who saw significant playing time as a freshman last year continues to develop as a player. He will once again be counted on by the Blue and Gold for his solid and dependable defensive skills. Alan Hansen, another returning Youngster, has been working on his skill set and will also be called upon to bolster the defensive corps.

Navy Hockey will be adding three Plebes on defense this year. Ben Berkey brings size, strength and athleticism to the team. Conor Kearney, twin brother to sophomore Liam Kearney, has quickly shown his knowledge and ability to play effectively at the college level. He and Aaron Fleming will be looked upon to play key, everyday roles on defense this year. Fleming, who brings Junior Hockey experience to Navy, will offer an offensive threat in addition to his defensive prowess with his keen ability to see the ice and read the fast paced action.

In Net

This defensive group will be supporting last year's team MVP, Second Class Jameson Marshall who will continue to maintain his place as one of the top goalies in the American Collegiate Hockey Association (ACHA). Marshall, who diligently works on the small tactical details of his game, will be pushed by Youngsters Ryan Dendler and Christian Sandroni. Together they give Navy Hockey the most depth the team has ever had in the crease. If that is not enough, Andrew Mills and Ed Klausner - two very talented Plebe goalies - are expected to quickly challenge the returning net-minders for playing time.

The Staff

Once again, the team is privileged to have the dedicated support of volunteer Jim Guiberson who is known as the "Anchor" of the Navy Hockey program. Jim returns as the team's Equipment Manager and Director of Game Day Operations. This year he will be joined by three dedicated and hockey savvy Midshipmen. Youngster Christopher Stevens will serve as Head Manager with Plebes Brandon Cespedes and Clay Cottrell assisting. The managers will enable Navy Hockey to continue its trademark of competing as a first class organization at the collegiate level.

Assistant Coach Matty Thomas will be behind the bench with Coach Fox for his second year. This year he will be responsible for running the "D", a position he will feel quite comfortable in as a former defenseman on the Navy squad. Coach Thomas, who was a four year letterman and team captain for Navy Hockey, is a proactive volunteer who is completely familiar with the team's systems. He is involved in all aspects of team operations, including recruiting, game video analysis and weight training. A Navy Lieutenant, Coach Thomas brings an incredible work ethic and wealth of hockey knowledge to the coaching staff.

Assistant Coach Scott Steele will return to the bench as offensive coach after volunteering for a year to help develop the Naval Academy's Women's Hockey team. His vast hockey experience from his playing days in the Midwest and from various professional leagues, make him a valuable asset to Navy Hockey. He inspires the team everyday with his infectious passion for the game.

Assistant Coach Josh Dupree, who enters his first year as a volunteer assistant coach, will split his time between the game squad and the taxi squad. Coach Dupree, a Massachusetts native, also played for Navy Hockey and understands the importance of skill development at the collegiate level. Assistant Coach Brendan Curley remains involved with the team, providing a great deal of technical critique and development. Calling on his NCAA Division 1 and professional level experiences, he will work closely with the younger players to bring them up to college speed. Before heading out to flight school, recent graduate and former Navy goaltender Ensign Alex Tidei, will dedicate time to coaching the goalies.

In addition to a strong coaching staff, Navy Hockey is pleased to have the assistance of several dedicated volunteers from the Naval Academy staff. Commander Patrick Murray, the team's Officer Representative and a four year letterman for Navy Hockey, brings a wealth of college hockey knowledge and Navy experience to his leadership and mentoring role with the team. As the team's Director of Hockey Operations, he is involved in all aspects of the program, on and off the ice.

Lieutenant Allen Murphy (Assistant Officer Representative), Chief Dave Jackel (Senior Enlisted Representative), and Assistant Professor Josh Radice (Faculty Representative) also keep the program in top form, attending to team logistics, finances and academic monitoring.

From top to bottom, the accomplishments of the Navy Hockey program, in general, and for the 2010-2011 season, in particular, will be due to the teamwork and dedication demonstrated on and off the ice by the coaches, staff members, and players who will carry on Navy Hockey's tradition of success.

2010-11 NAVY HOCKEY STAFF

Mike Fox, Head Coach

Coach Fox enters his fourth year at the helm of the United States Naval Academy Men's Hockey team. Under his leadership and "TEAM" approach, Navy Hockey has remained a strong contender in Division 1 of the American Collegiate Hockey Association. Well known and respected on the national level as a college hockey coach, he is most recognized for his determination to elevate hockey at the Naval Academy to the highest levels possible.

Coach Fox emphasizes the development of skills for team success. He began skating on the frozen ponds of Minnesota at age three and played his first organized hockey in one of the nation's first and finest youth hockey programs, the Edina Hockey Association. Not long after, he played for Blake School, an institution steeped in hockey tradition, where he was a four-year letterman and team captain. In college he was a four-year letterman for the Ohio University Bobcats, playing in the NCAA Division 1 CCHA League. After playing three years for the Saint Cloud Saints, he started his career as a hockey coach in the Edina Hockey Association,

Coach Fox has a passion for the game that he loves to share. He has coached All-Star Select teams in Chicago and a state champion junior team in Fort Worth, Texas. In addition, he has worked at hockey camps throughout the country with several highly regarded hockey coaches.

When the Fox's moved to Annapolis, he continued his involvement in the game, teaching skating lessons to children and power skating to local young players. With Lisa, his dedicated wife, the Fox's built the Navy Youth Hockey program into a strong and growing organization. Initially starting with about 30 players, they grew the program to over 180 before handing over the reigns. Today, Navy Youth Hockey has over 250 players and the program continues his philosophy of emphasizing skills and teamwork.

He and Lisa are very proud of their two children. Brittany, who played on NCAA Division I lacrosse at Notre Dame on a team that went to the Final Four, will complete physician's assistant school in the fall of 2010. Christopher, who graduated from Culver Military Academy where he played hockey and captained the State Champion lacrosse team, is currently a student at Salisbury University and plays on the hockey team.

The Fox's are grateful for their exposure to the United States Naval Academy, the Brigade of Midshipmen, and the tradition and values the institution represents. They look forward to another exciting and successful navy Hockey season.

STAFF

Lt. Matty Thomas, Assistant Coach

LT Matty Thomas returns to the Navy Hockey staff for his second year. A native of Bow, New Hampshire, he was co-captain of the Navy Hockey team, All-League selection, and 4-year letter winner.

Upon graduation in 2005, he reported to USS MONTEREY (CG 61) where he served as Strike Officer and Main Propulsion Division Officer. His next tour was onboard the USS ELROD (FFG 55) where he served as Damage Control Assistant. Currently, he is stationed in Washington DC at Military Sealift Command Headquarters, serving as Battle Watch Captain in the Global Command Information Center.

Prior to entering the Naval Academy, LT Thomas attended St. Paul's School in Concord, NH, where he was a standout hockey and lacrosse player. Initially a lacrosse recruit at Navy, he joined the team after Christmas break of his plebe year and quickly became a key player during his four year career.

His brother Andrew won an NCAA title at Denver University and United States Hockey League title for the Waterloo Blackhawks. A 2004 draft pick of the Washington Capitals, he currently plays professional hockey for the Trenton Devils of the East Coast Hockey League.

Scott Steele, Assistant Coach

Scott Steele returns to the Academy for his 4th year as a volunteer assistant coach. A native of Apple Valley, Minnesota, Scott began playing hockey at age 7 with various traveling youth hockey programs including the Bloomington Beltline and Apple Valley Phantoms. He was a varsity team captain and four-year letterman at Apple Valley and Rosemount High Schools. Scott started in the Central Hockey League with the Sioux City Muskateers at age 18 and continued to play several years of Minor League Hockey with the St. Paul Saints and Mohawk Valley Stars. He has coached Navy Youth Hockey in the Squirt and Bantam levels. Scott also volunteers as an assistant coach for the Navy women's hockey team. He and his wife, Karen, have two daughters, Samantha (12) and Sarah (8), and reside in Annapolis.

Josh Dupre, Assistant Coach

Josh Dupre enters his first year on the Navy Hockey Staff where he will be splitting time between the taxi squad and the game squad. A native of Springfield, Massachusetts, he attended Cathedral High School before serving for four years as an enlisted Sailor in Hawaii. Josh was then selected to enter the Naval Academy with the Class of 2004. While at USNA, he played on the football team for two years before playing defense on the Navy Hockey team during the 2002-2003 season. After his time in the Navy, he settled in Annapolis where he continues his service as a Firefighter for the City of Annapolis.

Brendan Curley, Assistant Coach

Brendan Curley returns to the Academy for his 9th year as an assistant coach. This season he will be assisting the offense and specialty teams. Brendan brings an impressive background to Navy Hockey. Out of Canisius High School in Buffalo, New York, Brendan played Division I hockey at Miami of Ohio of the CCHA, where he helped his team win the CCHA championship in 1993. Brendan later played two full seasons with the Hampton Road Admirals in the ECHL, where he led the team in assists as a rookie. Brendan holds a Bachelor of Science degree in English and Journalism. He is employed by ForeSee Results in sales and business development within the Web/Digital space. Brendan and his wife Alexis have three children and reside in Annapolis.

Jim Guiberson, Director of Game Day Operations

Jim Guiberson is serving his second season as Director of Game Day Operations for the Navy Hockey Program. In this capacity, he is responsible for maintaining the equipment, writing materials for the media guide, maintaining the official score sheet for all home games, running the scoreboard, and assisting the team and hockey program in various other capacities during the season. Jim, a 2000 West Chester University graduate, lives with his wife, Lindsay, in Annapolis, MD.

STAFF

Brian Simmerville, Athletic Trainer

Brian Simmerville enters his first year with the team. As an Assistant Athletic Trainer at the Naval Academy, Brian is responsible for sports medicine care for all members of the Navy Hockey team. Prior to his arrival in Annapolis, he spent the last three years serving as an Associate Athletic Trainer for Florida Southern College. Brian earned his bachelors degree in Sports Medicine from Eastern Michigan University in 2005. He then went on to earn a Masters degree in Exercise Science from the University of South Florida in 2007.

Larry Thomas, Scout (Northeast Region)

Larry Thomas enters his second season with the Navy Hockey program, responsible for scouting in the Northeast region. A native of Weymouth, Massachusetts, Larry has been involved in amateur and professional hockey for nearly 30 years. After graduating from Xaverian Brothers High School in 1968, he played hockey for four years on the varsity team at Assumption College in Worcester, Massachusetts where he set numerous team records as a goaltender.

In 1972 he began his on-ice officiating career in the AHL and ECAC, before spending 15 years as an official for the WCHA. He then resumed officiating for the ECAC as well as for Hockey East. He served as referee for two NCAA Frozen Four tournaments, the IIHF training camp in Germany, and the 1980 pre-Olympic games in Lake Placid during his college hockey officiating career. In addition, he has coached at Tilton School in New Hampshire.

He and his wife, Barbara, have two children; Matt and Andrew. Matt (USNA '05) is an Assistant Coach with the Navy Hockey team. Andrew is a two-time National Champion (Waterloo Blackhawks of the USHL in 2003, Denver University 2004) and spent last season playing for the New Jersey Devils minor league affiliates.

Commander Patrick Murray, USN, Officer Representative

CDR Patrick Murray, a native of Hingham, Massachusetts, graduated from USNA in 1988 and is currently serving as the Deputy Director of the Naval Academy's Division of Mathematics and Science.

After commissioning, he qualified as a Surface Warfare Officer and later became a Special Duty Naval Oceanographer.

During his naval career, he has served in multiple tours at sea, including wartime deployments in support of DESERT STORM in the early 90's and ENDURING FREEDOM in support of the Global War on Terrorism. Ashore, he has served as an Oceanography Operations Officer in Pearl Harbor, Hawaii and on the staff of the Oceanographer of the Navy in Washington, DC. Before returning to the Naval Academy, he served as the Commanding Officer of the Naval Pacific Meteorology and Oceanography Center and the Naval Oceanography Antisubmarine Warfare Center Yokosuka, Japan.

CDR Murray grew up playing youth hockey outside of Boston, Massachusetts and went on to play high school hockey for his hometown team, the Hingham Harbormen. He continued his hockey playing days at USNA where he was a four-year letterman as a forward on the Navy Hockey Team from 1984-1988. Later, as a junior officer, CDR Murray served as a seamanship, navigation, and leadership instructor, in the Naval Academy's Division of Professional Development. During that tour, he had the opportunity to continue his involvement with Navy Hockey, serving as an assistant coach from 1992-1994.

CDR Murray and his wife Stacey live in Annapolis and have two boys: Jack 11, and Sam 9.

Lieutenant Allen Murphy, Assistant Officer Representative

Lieutenant Allen Murphy grew up in Hancock, Maryland and graduated from the U.S. Naval Academy in 2005 with a B.S. in History. After commissioning in May of 2005, he reported to the USS INGRAHAM (FFG-61) where he served as Main Propulsion Division Officer, First Lieutenant, and Damage Control Assistant, completing one deployment in support of the Global War on Terrorism. Lieutenant Murphy next served as Navigator on board USS CARNEY (DDG 64). During this tour, the ship completed one deployment in support of the Global War on Terrorism and was awarded the Battle "E". Lieutenant Murphy is currently serving as a Leadership Instructor at the U.S. Naval Academy and is pursuing an M.B.A. from the University of Maryland's Smith School of Business. Lieutenant Murphy and his wife, Casey, reside in Annapolis.

STAFF

ETC (SW/AW) David G. Jackel, USN, Enlisted Representative

Chief Jackel is a native of West Mifflin, Pennsylvania. He enlisted in the United States Navy on September 21, 1995. During his first fleet tour he served on USS Constellation (CV-64) and completed two Western Pacific / Arabian Gulf deployments in support of OPERATION SOUTHERN WATCH. He has also served at sea in USS Bulkeley (DDG-84) in support of OPERATION ENDURING FREEDOM where he was involved anti-piracy operations as a boarding team member and received distinction as the ship's Sailor of the Year. Ashore, he was stationed at Naval Recruiting District Pittsburgh's Monroeville Recruiting Station. Chief Jackel was promoted to his current rank in 2007. In September of 2008, he reported to Naval Academy where he is currently assigned as the Senior Enlisted Leader for 29th Company. He and his wife Taleesha have 2 children; Kada- 10 and Max- 6.

Dr. Joshua J. Radice, Faculty Representative

Dr. Joshua James Radice is an Assistant Professor in the Mechanical Engineering Department and is in his second year as Faculty representative for the team. He came to Annapolis by way of General Electric-Middle River Aircraft Systems where he served as Senior Research and Development Engineer, and from the University of Michigan where he served as an Adjunct Professor in the Mechanical Engineering department and as a Post-Doctoral Researcher in the Smart Materials and Structures Laboratory.

A native of Port Jefferson, New York, Radice grew up all over the world as a United States Air Force child, with his father's military career keeping the family constantly on the move. Dr. Radice graduated from the University of Delaware in 1998, with a Bachelor's Degree in Mechanical Engineering. After a four year stint with Goodrich Aerospace as a Materials Research and Development Engineer, Radice returned to the University of Delaware to complete his PhD in Mechanical Engineering.

Rich Moesch and Don Preul, Internet Broadcast

Rich Moesch and Don Preul make up the Navy Hockey internet broadcast team. A retired Navy Corpsman, Rich worked as an athletic trainer for many years before leaving the Navy. After a four year break while living in the sunny hills of northern Minnesota, he returned to the team three years ago. Don is in his second year as the color man for the Navy Hockey internet broadcast. Away from the rink, he is the Curator of Ship Models at the newly renovated USNA Museum in Preble Hall. He resides in Annapolis, just minutes from McMullen Arena. As avid supporters of the program, Rich and Don look forward to another exciting year of Navy Hockey.

Anchors Aweigh

“Anchors Aweigh” was written by Lt. Charles Zimmermann, Musical Director of the Naval Academy in 1906, with the lyrics provided by Alfred H. Miles of the Class of 1906, as a fight song for the 1907 graduating class instead of the usual class march Zimmermann had composed for previous classes. The song made its debut at the 1906 Army-Navy game, and when the Midshipmen won the game, the song became a tradition.

The lyrics are:

Stand Navy down the field,
Sails set to the sky,
We'll never change our course,
So Army you steer shy.
Roll up the score, Navy,
Anchors Aweigh,
Sail Navy down the field,
And sink the Army,
Sink the Army Grey

Blue & Gold

“Blue and Gold” is the name of Naval Academy’s Alma Mater. The song is sung at the conclusion of every sporting event, at the end of pep rallies and at alumni gatherings. It is also sung in most companies by the plebes at the conclusion of the day; this event is also referred to as “Blue and Gold,” which is a short gathering to review the day for better or worse with the upperclass Midshipmen.

The lyrics are:

Now, colleges from sea to sea
May sing of colors true;
But who has better right than we
To hoist a symbol hue?

For sailors brave in battle fair,
Since fighting days of old,
Have proved the sailor’s right to wear
The Navy Blue and Gold!

... BEAT ARMY!
