

Hello! My name is Aimee Clay and I'm running for a seat on the BYHA board. While my professional experience includes nearly 15 years of building and leading global teams within business operations and data analytics, I'm most interested in being on the BYHA board as I have four kids in the program, and I see areas that I can help support to continue the growth of the organization.

As we look to next season, I will have two Peewees, one Squirt, and one 10U player. I've experienced many differences between the girls and boys programs and I would like to help narrow the gap. I've had kids on the highest teams and the lowest teams, to which I would like to focus on creating a more consistent player experience. Since I started attending the board meetings this year, I've brought forward not only areas of opportunity and concerns but also ideas and recommendations. I've shared feedback and proposals around tournaments, DIBS training, overall communication, the website, an enhanced team manager playbook, and several other areas. BYHA is a large organization, and to keep growing and evolving, we need to continue creating consistency in the program, providing transparency to parents and players, and leveraging more people within the organization who have great ideas to move us forward.

I already have a family trip planned during the April board meeting, so I will not be able to attend in person. If you are looking for the organization to continue moving in a similar direction that I am, I would appreciate your support in being elected to the board. Thank you!
