THE BROS 24 OILER 07

Players came to the field to a small surprise from the league, a new game clock. The true game clock/ play clock keeps everyone honest. Guys who take their time walking back to the huddle could make that play clock tick out. For the teams like the Bros who planned on going faster, this could work in their favor. Speaking of the Bros they started the season with a 24 to 7 win over the Oilers. The win wasn't the most exciting as they only mustered 6 points in the first half but turned it on a bit in the second half. Donell Wells connected two of his three touchdown passes to Koree Ross. The Oilers couldn't really get anything going on offense until late when the single touchdown they got wasn't going to make a difference in the outcome of the game. To start out, the Oilers are looking like they just don't have the athleticism to compete with the top dogs in A league. In my opinion, it's a win for the Oilers if they can find a way to stay in the A league and continue to build. I really don't see them having the horses to truly compete for a playoff spot this season. The Bros will take on the Huskers in Week 2. From what I saw in week one, the Bros have the upper hand going against the Huskers. The Oilers won't have it any easier in week 2 as they have CTS.

CTS 32 NOCO BULLS 12

In a game I thought would have been closer, CTS took full advantage of NoCo Bulls miscues. CTS got the 32 to 12 win behind top notch defense and offense. Duece Richardson ran the offense with precision and whenever there was nothing to be had, he took off running. I was somewhat surprised to see him run so much but it was very efficient runs at key moments to keep drives alive. Duece earned offensive player of the week for his performance. On the other side of the ball, CTS applied constant pressure, especially from Scott O'Hara and Anthony Clayton. Jason Davis was looking 5 years younger, as he was step for step with these young whipper snappers. Teddy Colbert, Ray Whittiker, and Mitch Colin where all on the receiving end of touchdown passes from Duece Richardson. For the NoCo Bulls, David Knighton was on point with his passing but drops where a huge factor in this game. Even with the pressure from CTS, David stood in the pocket and delivered the ball where it needed to be. If those dropped passes where caught then the game would have been a lot closer. CTS should come away with the win against the Oilers but they know not to overlook any opponent. For the Bulls they'll go up against the always tough Mile High Built. That should be a good game to watch but it is at 8am.

HUSKERS 19 DENVER GOATS 6

The Huskers got started on the right side of the standings with a 19 to 6 win over the Goats. Mario Lopez was able to guide the Huskers to the end zone for two of their scores. While the third score came on a game sealing pick six from Julian Banks. For the most part the Huskers defense was all over the Goats offense. The little glimmer of hope the Goats did have was erased from key drops. That appeared to be the theme in week one throughout the entire league. The Goats did welcome back Derek "Doc" Holiday again but you could tell there was still some rust from a year off. He had moments of brilliance but again drops made those moments go down as incomplete. The Goats defense showed progress as they held the Huskers offense to just the two touchdowns. It will be interesting to see how the Goats offense progresses throughout the season. The next test up next for the Goats will be Menace. Will that be a defensive battle or will it be a shootout. The Huskers will need to stop that explosive offense of the Bros in week 2.

MILE HIGH BUILT 18 COLORADO MENACE 00

Mile High Built took on Menace and came away with a shocking 18 to 0 win. MHB's new additions all played a role, from getting 2 sacks, some key flag pulls, pass break ups, and receptions. The defense was able to limit Menace even with all the weapons they have. Menace struggled to move the ball let alone score. A large part of that struggle was the clearly rusty Jesse Eaton at QB. The first few possessions you could see Jesse had happy feet but I'm not surprised with him coming back from all that he's been through. He did start to get into rhythm after those first few possessions. After he started to settle down his receivers kind of followed in the theme of the day... drops. For Mile High Built's offense they had moments of firing on all cylinders as the three touchdown passes from Artie Barceló tells you. But then there were other moments of lack luster play that the three interceptions thrown tells you. Artie did some running but not as much as I was expecting. For Menace they still have a top defense especially with the return of Jordan Williams and addition of Andrew Bergner. Jordan was all over the field with his 12 flag pulls and 1 pass defended. That performance earned him the Defensive player of the week. For week two Mile High Built will need just as stellar defensive performance to get the W over the Bulls. For Menace it will be a battle of the comeback quarterbacks when they face the Goats.

MATADORS 13 SWAT 00

We started off week one in the B league with what I would consider the game of the week. Two top tier teams provided a heck of a defensive showing. But all that was needed was the 13 points that the Matadors put up on Swat's defense. The Mats would go on to score on their first possession but wouldn't find the end zone again till the game was essentially already in the Mats hands. The Mats defense stifled TJ Talbot, the QB for Swat. They stifled him so much that Swat made a switch at QB to try and get a spark. Both corners for the Matadors played lockdown coverage while their pass rush harassed the QB. On the flip side, other than the first possession and some movement here and there, Swat's d-line had tremendous pressure. Playing out of his mind was DaJuan Thomas who appeared faster but still is as strong as ever. Even with that stellar defense, without offensive help it's hard to come away with the W. For Swat the road won't get any easier as they have drawn the Lightning up next. I don't believe those two have ever faced each other so it should be an intriguing matchup. As for the Matadors they will go up against Sudden Impact. On paper the Matadors will once again be the favorite going in.

DENVER ROCKERS 32 THE MOB 00

The veteran Rockers took full advantage of the inexperienced MOB. MOB received the ball first but miscues hindered any success. Pat Yanda and Co. took full advantage and got the six. The Rockers defense came to play as they had four or five interceptions on the day and pitched the shutout. The Rockers would go on to cruise to the 32 to 0 win. As for Mob they showed some talent but definitely showed the lack of continuity. From my sources they only have two guys with flag experience one of which is Ryan Conrad-Davis, who was with the Oilers last season. Mob has the skill players but lacked the offensive line to give their QB some time. I'm sure through the course of the season they'll get things clicking better but we shall see. The Rockers will take on the Disciples in week two. That should be a pretty good game as these two went toe to toe in the winter league a couple of times. MOB will go against another very experienced team in TNT. That's another pocket QB MOB's pass rushers will try to get after.

DENVER CHIEFS 07 KRYPTONITE 06

The third game up on the docket put Kryptonite up against the Chiefs. This game was a defensive battle for sure and displayed good linebacker play. Kryptonite was without their normal QB of Jovan Mays so they turned to do it all Steven Heit. Heit didn't throw the ball all that bad but didn't get a ton of help as there was a decent amount of drops from his receivers. Kryptonite scored first but failed to get the extra point. The Chiefs had some success moving the ball but found it extremely difficult to punch it in as Kryptonite locked down the hatches. Andrez Gallion was able to finally find one of his receivers to tie the game up. Converting the extra point wound up giving them the win. Kryptonite came close to taking the lead but Donavon Bennett wasn't able to maintain control of the ball throughout the entire process of the catch. Kryptonite will try to bring in those crucial catches in week 2 when they go against FOE. For the Chiefs, they get a little easier match up against the Mustangs.

FOE 13 SUDDEN IMPACT 07

This season FOE has decided to try new faces at the quarterback spot. They still have Hank on the team but he is such a team player he moved positions. It will take time for the chemistry to come with whoever they decide to go with but in the meantime getting the 13 to 7 win over Sudden Impact keeps them going in the right direction. Neither team looked to be fundamentally sound in this one as both teams really relied upon their speed and athleticism. FOE held the 6 to 0 lead up until about five minutes left in the game when Sudden Impact finally got on the board and went up 7 to 6. But FOE saw some flashes from one their new QBs as he tossed a beautiful post to win the game. Will FOE be able to ride the momentum from this win when they go against Kryptonite? For Sudden Impact the road definitely does not get any easier as they see how they will fair against the Matadors. The match up to watch in that one will be how the Matadors d-line does against Sudden Impact's o-line.

DISCIPLES 13 DENVER LIGHTNING 6

The Disciples had a bit of a fight on their hands but they did come away with the 13 to 6 win against the Lightning. Dero Ard and Aaron Knox ran the ball extremely efficiently but couldn't quite punch it in the end zone as much as they should have. They tried to go for it on fourth down late in the game but were stopped. Luckily for them, their defense held strong. The Lightning did not come out in their normal spread but did turn to the spread after not much success in the first half. They did show signs of life with their spread system but couldn't convert that success into enough points for the W. The Disciples ended the game with an interception from Haydn Strauss in the end zone to stop Lightning's efforts. After stopping one high powered offense, the Disciples will face up against the explosive Rockers in week 2. That game is definitely on the radar as the game of the week. The Lightning will go against Swat, I think for the first time ever. I'm interested to see how those two teams match up.

TNT 26 MUSTANGS 00

The last game of day was almost over before it even started. TNT's lines on both side of the ball dominated the Mustangs lines. That dominance propelled TNT to a 26 to 0 win. Dave Maestas slung the ball very well, especially to Mung Huynh who had a few big catches. The Mustangs offensive problems persist as they couldn't move the rock against TNT. TNT came away with a couple interceptions and even had a pick six. TNT basically did whatever they wanted as proof from moving the ball on the ground or through the air. TNT will go against the new team MOB which might get their record to 2 and 0. For the Mustangs they will face up against the Chiefs. That's another tough defense for the Mustangs to go against.
