Kewaunee Storm
PACKERLAND

The Storm looks like it is coming again, this time for a gold ball. The Packerland Conference champs return nearly 80 percent of their pitching and almost two-thirds of their at bats from a team that fell one run short of a state title. That nemesis (Kenosha St. Joe's) is now in division two. Northeast District Player of the Year Brett Paulson along with classmates Waylon Delain and Jackson Walecka are back to lead the charge to the season's final day in June and are planning on a different result.

Stratford Tigers
MARAWOOD SOUTH

The Tigers are one of the favorites in the Marawood South, and rightfully so. They return nearly 100 percent of their innings and at bats, led by All-Conference picks Brady Berg, Riley Spindler and Jaeger Ormond. Second year coach Drew Spaeth's group were denied a sectional appearance by rival Marathon, whom they will likely have to get past again this season in order to secure a place in Appleton come June.

Dodgville Dodgers
SOUTHWEST WISCONSIN

Last season's Southwest Wisconsin champs were stopped short of sectionals but look to have the horses to not only repeat, but take deeper post season steps. Veteran coach Pat Reilly welcomes back a quartet of All-Conference picks to lead the charge, which includes Nathan Johnson, Jayce Halverson, Bryce Crubaugh-Lockard and Joey Honerbaum. A trip to state would be a first for the program since 1963.

Cedar Grove-Belgium Rockets
BIG EAST SOUTH

The Rockets have become a force in the Big East and are again the clear favorites to win the South in 2026. Coach Tom Race's squad has been on the cusp of a state appearance, the most recent being last spring when Kenosha St. Joe's ended their year in the Sectional Finals. They return senior Carter Schmitz and a host of All-Conference underclassmen led by Ira Hilbelink to pursue a spot in the final four.

Marathon Red Raiders
MARAWOOD SOUTH

The Red Raiders contending for a conference title is about as consistent as the sun setting in the west. HOF Coach Steve Warren's squad finished tied with Stratford for second place last season, then knocked the Tigers out of the playoffs in the regional finals and are again a favorite to win the league in 2026. All-Conference picks Drew Woelfel, True Thurs, Owen Chrouser and Ean Shuda will battle one pitch at a time, with plans on that battle continuing into mid-June.

Brillion Lions
WIAA D3 (328)

The Lions looked primed to contend and win the Eastern Wisconsin this spring. Conference coaches are picking veteran coach Chad Shimek's crew to win what would be their first conference title since 2013. They return all of their innings and nearly 90 percent of their at bats to pursue the title, led by Shimek's son Joe, an Honorable Mention, All-State pick in 2025.

Cambridge Bluejays
CAPITOL SOUTH

The Blue Jays are the favorites in the Capital South after sharing the 2025 title with New Glarus. They return over half of their innings and at bats with eyes on a deeper post-season run after being stopped by Lake Country Lutheran in the Regional Final. All-Conference picks Jett Horton, Cal Nottestad and Evan Harbort return to lead the effort.
