Communication:

- C-A-P Triangle. The “Coach – Athlete – Parent” Triangle is an effective communication tool. Two of the sides of the triangle gain strength from natural communication between: 1) coaches and athlete at training, and 2) parents and athlete at home and in the car. The Coach–Parent side of the triangle can be the weakest. Parents are encouraged to communicate directly with coaches. Parents should also use other parents for support and as a resource. Parents should take responsibility for informing themselves using the tools we make available.
- Coach-Parent Meetings. Parent Meetings will be held monthly by coaches to discuss training and upcoming events as well as provide an open forum for communication between parents and coaches. Parent meeting dates and locations will be announced.
- White Board. The white board hanging in the Team Room by the Team Room entrance door contains details about the current week’s training and racing plans. Parents and athletes should check the board daily. Training changes can be made “at the last minute” by coaches due to slope conditions, which will be announced here. You should be prepared for slalom, GS, video, dryland, etc.
- Website. The website (www.teamduluth.org) contains a wealth of information, including: calendars, announcements (under News and Training Hotlink), registration forms, scholarship information, program descriptions, NJRS information, contact info, and links to USSS, FIS, etc. The website is a primary source of Team Duluth information.
- Communication APP. Get information for All Team Duluth right on your phone—not found on handouts. Pick a way to receive messages for All Team Duluth: A) If you have a smartphone, get push notifications. B) On your iPhone or Android phone, open your web browser and go to the following link: information about the app TBA soon.....
- SPORT ENGINE – EMAILS/APP/Chat team groups. Team Duluth sends the majority of its electronic communication through emails. When you register for Team Duluth in Sport Engine, we collect your emails to register and send out information through Sport Engine. Emails look like Team Duluth no-reply@mailier.sportsengine.com. Watch for these in your inbox, as sometimes they are sent to people’s junk folder. If you have issues about receiving emails, please contact us.

Training:

- Coaches expect athletes to be on the snow or designated training location ON TIME, ready to participate with all equipment needed for the training per the White Board, etc.
- “Training time” does not include preparation time before or after training; coaches also expect athletes to help with training set-up and tear-down. This clean-up works best when all athletes participate. Sometimes hill clean-up takes longer than expected.
- In a quality 3-hour night of training, athletes achieve 15 to 20 minutes of active skiing or boarding.
- Athletes often like to free ski after training. Coaches encourage this, especially during Holiday Camps. Parents and athletes should communicate their post-training intentions with each other.
- During Holiday Camps, coaches may offer extended training times if crowds are light, or training could be cut short if crowds are heavy. Parents and athletes are asked to remain flexible during these opportunities. We often move training to Giants Ridge and other venues.
- Coaches encourage athletes to choose their own level of training intensity based on their goals. Athletes may choose to train less than, for example, the 3 weeknights offered. It is their choice, though the more you train the more you will improve.
- Participation in the program requires both parents and athletes to keep balance in their lives. Include “life” in your planning: rest, nutrition, family, school, spiritual, scouts, music, leadership, community, academic clubs, etc.
- Video is often taken and reviewed by the athletes and coaches. Coaches will often share a link to view training and competition videos.
- Dryland. This is critical for a safe and successful season. It starts right after school begins in September. Generally, dryland is held at Spirit Mtn.
- Spirit Mtn Season Pass: Be sure to have your season pass with you at all times. Spirit Mtn frequently checks all skiers for tickets/passes when loading the lifts. They may not let you up the hill.

Facilities:

- Team Duluth and volunteers built and paid for the Team Room. Coaches expect athletes to keep the room clean. Please be respectful and clean up after yourself!
- Team Duluth also represents Spirit Mountain. Please be respectful of the mountain and the chalet. Inappropriate behavior will not be accepted.
- The Team Room opens at least a half hour before training and closes a half hour after training, often earlier and later.
- Place your name on all equipment. Store skis and poles neatly in the racks.
- Leave the entry-way and primary traffic patterns clear of all equipment and bodies.
- Use the designated athlete tuning benches to maintain your equipment (during non-training times!).
- Ask before using the coaches' bench or tools.
- RESPECT...you represent TEAM DULUTH!

Code of Conduct:

The purpose of the Code of Conduct is to establish and maintain a high standard of behavior that will ensure the safety and well-being of all athletes, parents, volunteers and coaches during Team Duluth functions. All athletes and Parents (all Team Duluth members) are expected to abide by this code of conduct.

Respect for others, Respect for self, Respect for sport, Respect for others, Respect for property

Failure to comply with this Code of Conduct may result in disciplinary action.

TEAM DULUTH LIABILITY WAIVER & CODE OF CONDUCT FORMS

Concussion Training:

Concussions and head injuries are also a common occurrence on the slopes. Concussion incidence is higher in pediatric and young adult skiers and snowboarders, compared to adult populations, but it is important for people of all ages to be informed and prepared before hitting the slopes this winter. All the Team Duluth coaches go through concussion training and we recommend that you and your athletes also go through this training so you are educated on this topic.

CDC HEADSUP CONCUSSION TRAINING

This course will help you: Understand a concussion and the potential consequences of this injury, Recognize concussion signs and symptoms and how to respond, Learn about steps for returning to activity (play and school) after a concussion, and Focus on prevention and preparedness to help keep athletes safe season-to-season.

WHAT IS USSS RACING?

The United States Ski and Snowboard Association (USSS) racing circuit is a well-run alpine ski race series where racers compete against other teams across the Minnesota (Buck Hill, Gilboa, Team Afton, 4 Degree, etc.) and also teams from across the region (Northern Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan).

Athletes are always excited about the friends they make from other teams, the competition these races foster, and the depth of experience they gain from racing at a variety of hills.

More information can be found here:

<https://usskiandsnowboard.org>

There are registration fees for the USSS association. You need to register your athlete for both USSS and Region 1 (the region we compete in). If your athlete is also racing FIS, there is an additional FIS registration fee. You can visit these sites to learn more: USSS and Region 1.

USSS Central Region 1 skifast.com is the regional series Team Duluth participates in within USSS. Competitions all over Minnesota and Wisconsin aim to provide fun, fair and safe events that prepare our membership for further competition.

Central R1 registration will continue as it did last season, through USSS national registration

Team Duluth athletes participate in this series, and our licensed coaches travel and coach at these events.
