2022 OLYMPIC WINTER GAMES | BEIJING, CHINA

Preliminary Round • USA (2-0-0-0) vs. Germany (1-0-0-1) • Wukesong Arena • Beijing, China • Sunday, Feb. 13, 2022

TONIGHT'S GAME

The U.S. Olympic Men's Ice Hockey Team plays its final preliminary round game today against Germany at Wukesong Arena. Team USA is the home team and will wear its third jersey. Tonight's game will be televised live on USA Network and streamed at NBCOlympics.com.

COMMESSO TO START TALKING POINTS

Drew Comness will get the call in goal tonight for Team USA. The 19-year-old, who is the youngest goaltender ever to play for a U.S. Olympic Team, played the opening game for the U.S. in the Olympic tournament and made 29 saves in an 8-0 victory over China.

AGAINST GERMANY IN THE OLYMPICS

The U.S. and Germany will meet for the 10th time in Olympic history here tonight with Team USA holding an 8-0-0-1-0 (W-OTW-OTL-L-T) advantage. The teams last met in the Games on Feb. 20, 2002, with the U.S. gaining a 5-0 win in the quarterfinals.

LOOKING TO WIN GROUP

With a point tonight, the U.S. will win Group A and earn a bye to the quarterfinals. Since this current Olympic format was established in 2010, the U.S. has won its group twice. The U.S. went 2-1-0-0 (W-OTW-OTL-L) in 2014 with regulation wins over Slovakia (7-1) and Slovenia (5-1) sandwiched by a 3-2 shootout victory over host Russia, which featured the shootout heroics of T.J. Oshie and goaltending of Jonathan Quick. In 2010, the U.S. was 3-0-0-0, earning regulation wins over Switzerland (3-1), Norway (6-1) and Canada (5-3) in preliminary round play.

PLAYOFF SCENARIOS

Bye to QF With A Win Of Any Kind or Overtime Loss

If the U.S. earns a point in tonight's game against Germany -- which can happen with a win (regulation or overtime) or an overtime loss -- it will win Group A and get a bye to the quarterfinals. Group B preliminary round play was completed yesterday with ROC earning the bye to the quarterfinals with seven points. The winner of the Finland-Sweden game today will win Group C.

If the U.S. Loses in Regulation -- Three-Way Tie Likely

If the U.S. loses in regulation and Canada beats China in regulation, there will be a three-way tie atop the Group A standings ... and unless Germany defeats the U.S. by seven or more goals, Canada would win the three-way tiebreaker based on goal differential in the games played against the tied teams. If the U.S. loses in regulation and Canada loses to China, Germany would win Group A by virtue of its head-to-head win over the U.S.

If the U.S. Doesn't Win Group A, It Could Still Earn A Bye to QF

With the U.S. already having six points, if it loses tonight to Germany in regulation, it is still in good position to earn the fourth quarterfinal bye. The biggest wildcard for the U.S. in that scenario is if the Finland-Sweden game goes to overtime, which would result in the losing team earning the fourth QF bye with seven points. If the Finland-Sweden game ends in regulation and the U.S. loses in regulation, there would be a three-way tie between Denmark, the U.S. and the loser of the Finland-Sweden game with six points for the fourth QF bye. The next tiebreaker after points is goal differential, where the U.S. has a big advantage (U.S. +10 heading into play today; Denmark is done with Group play and is +1, Finland is +6 and Sweden +4).

AT THE CANADA GAME

The U.S. Olympic Women's Ice Hockey Team, which faces Finland in semifinal play tomorrow at 9:10 p.m. at Wukesong Arena, was among those at last night's USA-Canada men's hockey game, as was Olympic snowboarder Shaun White.
