

The map displays the state of Connecticut, divided into 169 towns. The towns are color-coded into four main regions: blue (northwest), pink (central), green (southwest), and orange (southeast). Red lines connect various towns, representing a network of relationships. The map is titled 'CONNECTICUT' at the top center.