About MVP

The club is the brainchild of a group of like-minded veteran coaches from the Miami Valley area wishing to serve and train the Miami Valley junior volleyball community.

Our defining concept is that the volleyball training component is tightly coupled to a strength and conditioning component. MVP training involves a competitive culture, family atmosphere for the players, families, and coaches, a hard charging work ethic, and a commitment to bring out the best of our athletes.

Volleyball coaches will be working hand in hand with the strength and conditioning coaches to create the unique atmosphere which leverages both training components to best serve the development of our athletes.

How the decisions are made

- Each player is rated on their skills by at least five coaches, including the coaches coaching that age: serving, passing, setting, hitting, blocking and floor defense.
- Numbers are tabulated and the results are given back to the coaches,
- Players are ranked by numerical ranking BY POSITION.
- Coaches debate the full list. Intangibles are considered: leadership, team play, enthusiasm, physical ability, years of playing experience and coachability.
- Application of OHSAA rules. Cannot have more than three players from the same school on the floor at the same time.
- Coaches will fill their teams by position. Taking a number of players from each of the positions.
- Coaches will start calling those on their list.

After Tryout Day 2

- If you get a call. You can do any one of three things.
 - Say yes and be excited.
 - Say no and move on.
 - Say nothing and wait. You will have until the deadline noted below. The offer is withdrawn at 9PM of that day. Please be aware that by waiting you are holding up the process for other players that are on the list. Please be kind and decide as early as you are able.
 - If you are waiting, you can always call the coach for him/her to answer any questions that may have come up since the time of the offer.
- If you have not heard, please check the MVP website. The tryout list will be posted. What the posted list mean.
 - Those who are on the team list are people who have been offered and have accepted.
 - Those who are on the wait list are either those who have been offered but have not accepted, or those who have not been offered but are still under consideration.
